"To the Ladies, God Bless Them"

This week my editorial has been written for me by the Carmel Fire Department, and it is a good one.—W. O.

... something about fire safety, we in the Fire Service will repeat that toast with emphasis.

Fire Department records show that 70 per cent of building fires break out in the HOME: Women who spend most of their time at home, can do much to protect it against fire—by taking very simple precautions requiring little effort. About the only extra effort that is required, beyond ordinary good housekeeping duties, is to THINK—of what carelessness can and does cause when not avoided.

Spring housecleaning is a tradition in nearly every home—yet, few housewives ever consider that they are then engaged in a fire prevention program. Today, however spring clean-up is advocated for just that purpose.

Woman's responsibility for fire safety in the home goes far beyond that annual event. It is a day by day responsibility which can prevent a very large portion of our annual fire loss. A working knowledge of the technology of fire prevention is not essential—just daily observance of a number of common sense precautions. A few of them are presented here, and an occasional evening spent by the entire family discussing fire safety in the home will bring out others.

(1) Keep electrical extension cords in good condition. Replace frayed one NOW: next week your problem might be replacing your HOUSE.

(2) Turn off the electric iron before you leave it. If you answer the door bell and leave it on, your next callers may be the Fire Department.

(3) Of millions of gallons of gasoline produced each year, not one drop is intended for cleaning purposes. It will clean clothes—BUT—it is made to explode—in engines. It can explode in the house: don't give it the opportunity.

(4) Don't throw dust from the vacuum cleaner into a fire. It can cause a terrific explosion. Put it in the ash barrel—don't let it put you in the hospital.

These and many others are simple rules. There are dozens more, among which is "DON'T SMOKE IN BED." Set aside an evening now and then for a "family conference on fire safety"—it will pay dividends. It may save your home. It may save your life.

Easter Church Services

Carmel and Carmel Valley residents will join the world on Easter morning in traditional worship of the resurrection and attend services planned at local churches.

At All Saints' Episcopal Church it has been announced by the Rev. A. B. Seccombe that there will be Holy Communion at 8 o'clock and that will be followed by the Family Service at 9:30. Holy Communion will also be at the 11 o'clock service, with the Rt. Rev. Winfred H. Ziegler, D. D., Bishop of Wyoming, as the celebrant. The sermon will be delivered by the Rev. Seccombe.

The Rev. Seccombe has also announced that in order to provide for the anticipated large crowds it will be impossible to maintain a nursery at that hour. He urges parents to attend the Family Service with their children.

An Easter egg hunt will be held at the new rectory for the younger members of the church at 3:00 o'clock. The rectory is located at the corner of Atherton Road and Mesa Drive in Hatton Fields.

With the altar banked with lilies and featuring special Easter music, two identical services will be held on Easter Sunday at the Church of the Wayfarer, at 9:30 and 11 a. m. Dr. K. Fillmore Gray will preach and John W. Farr, baritone, will sing Calvary by Rodney with Margaret Sherman Lea at the organ. Amplifiers will carry the service into extra rooms of the church and out into the Biblical Garden for those worshippers unable to be seated in the chapel.

Unincorp To Hold Special Meeting On Valley Zoning

The matter of rezoning for a business district at the intersection of the coast highway and the Carmel Valley turnoff will be the main topic of discussion at a meeting of Carmel Unincorporated to be held Monday night at 7:30 at the Carmel Woman's Club.

A report on a conference with state authorities will be made by Dr. A. L. Van Meter, who, with Maj. Gen. E. G. Chapman, president of the organization, recently returned from a trip to Sacramento for that purpose.

Miss Helen Lisle, secretary, urges a large turnout at the meeting, for discussion will take place on whether to attend the meeting of the Monterey County Planning Commission on April 25 in a large group to enter another protest.

The matter of the rezoning by the Planning Commission was postponed at last month's meeting for further study, and the second hearing on the application will take place at this month's session.

The application for commercial rezoning of the property in question was made by Attorney William E. Hudson, co-owner of the land.

The Easter Riots

BY CAROL CARD

We wonder sometimes if present day Carmel residents fully appreciate the quiet, orderly Eastertide which we now enjoy. The chances are that they don't—unless they have lived here at least ten years, so that they can look back on the terrible Holy Weeks of the latter 1930's and early 1940's, when the student population of the San Francisco bay region colleges and high schools descended on Carmel in locust-plague numbers for Easter vacation.

Just when these annual migrations started, we do not know. They began to be noticeable during the mid-1930s and became increasingly and more unpleasantly noticeable, until by 1939 and 1940 they had achieved the proportions of a civic menace. In hundreds, certainly, and seemingly by the hundreds of thousands, they poured over Carmel Hill in cars of every shape, size, color, and condition. Some of the jaded jaloppies had to be pushed up the long grade. Shrieking, exuberant youth quickly filled up nearly all available rental units, really filled. Every year one heard about this landlady or that who had rented a guest cottage to (she thought) two girls, who had written for reservations, only to have fourteen turn up to occupy it. A room rented to one might have six occupants — with sleeping bags, of course. People rented garages and discovered that they were being used as bedrooms.

The youngsters congested the streets with their cars, which they drove with fine abandon. They blackened the dunes, overflowed the sidewalks, jammed the restaurants and the shops ("just looking," of course, for students are notoriously impecunious.) The crush in the postoffice was terrific. General delivery lines extended out onto the sidewalks, and box holders could scarcely get in to collect their mail. Students strolling six abreast, or just milling about aimlessly, clogged the sidewalks on Ocean Avenue. The poor resident of Carmel just didn't stand a chance during Easter week, and adult visitors who had previously enjoyed spring vacations here, began avoiding the town.

Some of the more brash and thoughtless youth of Carmel welcomed this invasion for the added (Continued on Page Eighteen)

Sporting NOTES

SPORTS SCHEDULE

Track
Saturday, April 16—Carmel at San Jose Relays, 1 p. m.
Softball
Sunday, April 17—Abalone League: Tigers vs. Shamrocks at 1:30; Pilots vs. Giants, 2:30.
Baseball
Mission League—King City at Monterey, 2 p. m.

SAUNDERS SHIFT STOPS THE TIGERS; GIANTS TOP SHAMROCKS

A replica of the famous Williams shift as employed by the Cleveland Indians was tried by the Knight-led Pilots in last Sunday's Abalone League play and the Pilots lasted to cop a 12-9 decision from the Tigers of Mike Balazs. With the always dangerous Lou Sanders at the dish, Manager Knight ordered third baseman Nicholson and leftfielder Giles to shift into rightfield to stop the terrific pull hitting of the Tiger third-sacker. So successful was the operation, that slugger Lou lined directly into the mitt of Nicholson to snuff out a Tiger rally. With strategy of this type being employed by Abalone League managers, it is going to require some expert master-minding to bring a team home in front.

Last Sunday's league-openers saw some potent hitting on the part of Orv Rogers, Chief Frates, Jay Huffman, and Jack Cate. All of these lusty sluggers connected for round-trippers to drive in plenty of runs for their teams. Rogers earned the distinction of garnering the first home run of the 1949 Abalone League season.

Masterful pitching by Joe Nicholson enabled the Giants to hang a 7-4 verdict on the Shamrocks. Although both teams picked up an even dozen base hits, the great clutch hitting of Howard Roloff paid off in the final tally. Howard drove in five Giant runs to give his team a safe margin of victory.

Next Sunday the Tigers and Shamrocks tangle in the 1:30 fracas, and the Pilots and Giants battle for first place in the 2:30 embroglio. There is still time to sign up for a team in this fun league. All you have to do is to be on hand at the high school field on Sunday afternoon.

JIM HARE SHOWS DRIVING POWER IN JUNIOR GOLF

Although he bowed out of the match play at the end of the first round, Jim Hare, Carmel High School's ace golfer, lashed out a 270 yard drive in the pre-tournament driving contest to wind up in the runner-up position. It took a 279 yard wallop to deprive Carmel's Jim of the top spot in the driving contest. As is the custom, San Jose golfers again dominated this year's junior tournament. A San Jose boy eliminated Hare, and another Prune City boy is currently leading the tourney.

CARMEL TRACK TEAM COPS LITTLE FIVE MEET

Paced by the flying feet of Dick Gargiulo, the Carmel High School heavyweights won the first B division championship for the Red and Gray. Dick led the swiftest of the B division performers in the 220 yard dash and took a close second in the century. The slender Carmel star also ran a brilliant 220 in the relay to insure victory for the Padres.

Jack Belangee showed signs of reaching the form predicted for him at the beginning of the season when he coasted to a victory in the 440 yard dash. Jack is capable of winning the CCAL 440 if he reaches his peak before the big meet.

Dick Weer showed plenty of courage in winning the 880 yard run. Dick has been bothered by faulty tonsils for several weeks and wasn't expected to compete in the Little Five Meet. However, he toed the startling line with the best in the B division and finished a good ten yards in front of the pack.

In the mile run Denicio Narvaez upset the favored Hooky DeAmara to garner first place. DeAmara, on past performances, was doped to outclass the mile field, but a fine performance by Narvaez left the favorite well down the track. With a little more knowledge of pace, Narvaez will be running the mile under 4:40.

The Padres earned 47 points in their winning effort. Pacific Grove took second place with 39 points, and King City was third with 36. Gonzales trailed with 21.

Max Kelly, Pacific Grove high jumper, equalled his own CCAL high jump record by leaping a shade over six feet. With high class competition Kelly is capable of soaring over 6-2.

King City ran away with the lightweight meet by accumulating 81 points to completely outdistance Gonzales. Gonzales scored 30, Carmel 18, and P. G. 9. Ed Goodrich, Alan Reyburn and Jim Harget turned in excellent performances for the little Padres.

KING CITY UPSETS PADRE HORSEHIDERS

An upset tie with the strong Hartnell College baseball team had the Padre pastimers soaring, but it didn't take long for the King

City boys to bring the locals back to earth. In a previous engagement with the valley boys, the Padres emerged on the long end of a 6-1 count, and figured to again take the measure of the Mustangs. However, the hustling Blue and White squad outthit, outfielded, and outplayed the locals to win a well-deserved 7-1 verdict on the King City diamond. The Mustangs solved the offerings of Gene Vandervort for 8 blows, while the locals were collecting 4 base knocks off the King City pitcher, Walt Frey. Neils Reimers, Don Canham and Vandervort were the only Padres to make the hit column.

MISSION LEAGUE OPENER AT MONTEREY SUNDAY

Two undefeated teams will take the field in the opening Mission League baseball tussle at Monterey next Sunday. The Monterey entry knocked off Hollister last Sunday while King City nosed out Gonzales. Lefty Davidson's Monterey crew showed plenty of power in nipping the Hollister nine and have established themselves as the team to beat in the Mission League. Heavy hitting by Acevedo and Viramontes backed up the clavier pitching of Baptista in last Sunday's victory over Hollister. Action starts at 2 o'clock Sunday.

Charles Meinicke

Charles Meinicke, 85, former resident here who made his home in Carmel Woods for more than 20 years, died April 10 at Flintridge, it was learned this week. He had many friends here.

Mr. Meinicke left Carmel three years ago to make his home with his daughter, Mrs. Hans Sump of Flintridge. He was a native of Germany.

SCULPTOR WINS AWARD

The Oakland Art Gallery has announced the awards for its 1949 exhibition of oil paintings and sculpture. Clarence Bates, local sculptor, took third prize and a bronze medal with his work, Torsion. Mr. Bates is a member and regular exhibitor of the Carmel Art Association, and one of his works, Nymph, is permanently on view in the Art Association Gallery garden.

Audubon "Tour" Success Assures Another Next Year

A large audience in Sunset auditorium last Friday evening greeted with applause Ferdinand Ruth's announcement that the excellent attendance of the current series of Audubon Screen Tours had assured the showing next winter of the new Screen Tours of the organization. Then the audience settled down to enjoy the films on Alaska which were run off with Father George M. Link, American amateur naturalist and trail ranger, as commentator.

Probably the most entertaining sequence in the moving pictures of our most primitive area was that of a grizzly bear trying to uncover as a tasty morsel of food a ground squirrel that had taken refuge under a huge snow bank that was slowly melting under the summer sun. The grizzly attacked first one side and then the other of the stubborn mass of ice, breaking off small chunks, unsuccessfully trying to burrow under, unaware that while he worked on the lower side of the bank the little rodent had slipped out at the upper edge and scampered away to a new hiding place. The big beast had finally to give up his quest and return to his diet of roots and twigs.

The showing of these nature films has been one of the most popular projects of the local Audubon Society, sharing as it does with hundreds of persons the life and habits of nature's wild creatures and giving enjoyment to old and young alike. Those who cannot join in the society's field trips can nonetheless through these films gain an insight into America's great out-of-doors.—L. L. T.

HI CHATTER

By Nancy Page

This is the week we've been waiting for all these months, and now that almost everyone has a reasonable facsimile of a tan or sunburn, it's just about time to put away beach towels and suntan oil to begin the daily tramps up the hill again. CHS students will have something to look forward to on their return to school, though, for Pacific Grove High School is scheduled to present its traveling assembly before the Carmel student body at the beginning of the week. Shows from other schools are one of the most welcome forms of assembly entertainment, and the system of exchanging assemblies is one which has proved a benefit to every organization concerned.

At a recent meeting of the Rally Club, members decided to try to overcome the club's somewhat embarrassing financial position by sponsoring the first student body showing of Mr. Mitchell's color film of school life. The movie depicts every kind of campus activity from experiments in the science lab to senior play rehearsals, so everybody is eagerly waiting to see if he's in any of the pictures. Student musical accompaniment is to be worked out for subsequent showings of the film during Public Schools Week, but the initial program, planned for next Tuesday will be without sound.

Five Carmel students traveled to Salinas last Saturday, April 9, to take the College Board entrance examinations. The tests, which lasted six hours for the entire program, are required for admission to most eastern colleges as well as a few California schools. Those from Carmel who took the examinations included Cynthia Carr, Aram Tootelian, Marjorie Glenon, Nancy Page, and June Kocher.

High school students who were found to have positive reactions in the recent tuberculosis skin testing program will have an opportunity to be X-rayed next week when the mobile X-ray unit is in this area. This county service is available to anyone over 12 years of age, but it is especially important that all tuberculin-positive students and adults who have had contact with such persons be X-rayed. The Monterey County Tuberculosis and Health Association does the X-raying free of charge so that any student who had a positive reaction in the tuberculin skin test may be assured of having this added check. According to the schedule, the mobile unit will be in Carmel on Thursday, April 21, at Sunset School from 9-12 a. m., and from 1:30-3:30 p. m. High school students involved will be excused from class to be X-rayed.

The realization that graduation is drawing nearer every day is being strengthened again as seniors are turning in their money for graduation caps and gowns. Navy blue gowns will be worn by the class of '49, with white tassels decorating the caps.

A progressive dinner has been planned by the Leaders' Club for next Wednesday night, April 20. The dinner promises to be lots of fun for all the hungry participants, since each course will be served at a different member's home. (Time consumed by travel will only make for bigger appetites!) Appetizers will be at the home of Kathie von Meier, salad and soup at Laurel Hildebrand's, entree at Edelen Cory's and dessert followed by a business meeting at Joan Daniels'. Janice Hatton is in charge of plans for the dinner. The Leaders' Club is also slated to give a dance on the night of April 29. May Day will be the central theme, and Connie Melchior and Eleanor Taggart are co-chairmen.

Dr. Friedy Heisler Opens Office Here

Dr. Friedy B. Heisler, who recently opened offices here, has been an extremely busy woman ever since her graduation from the University of Illinois Medical School. Dr. Heisler, a native of Switzerland, came to the United States in 1924 with her son and husband, a former professor at the University of Zurich. Her husband is engaged in law practice in Chicago, making occasional trips out here, and hopes to join his family permanently soon. Her son, Dr. Ivan F. B. Heisler, a graduate of Stanford Medical School, is now house physician in surgery at a San Francisco Hospital.

Dr. Heisler was for many years resident and staff psychiatrist in the Department of Public Welfare of Illinois, working in both the in- and out-patient departments. Since 1941 until she came out here, she was staff psychiatrist and instructor in the Department of Psychiatry at the University of Illinois, supervising the training of medical students, student nurses and social workers. Assistant attending physician at Illinois Neuropsychiatric Institute, she was also a consultant in municipal and criminal court cases, as well as serving on the teaching staff of Roosevelt College as consultant on group therapy in the Division of Labor Education.

With all this and her private practice, this energetic woman still found time to give as psychiatric consultant for such welfare agencies as United Charities Family Service Bureau, YWCA, Jewish Welfare Agency, Good Will Industries, Alcoholics Anonymous and various trade unions.

Why Standard helps young scientists through school

The student's lamp that lights America's future never needed to burn more brightly than today.

During this school year, we have extended our graduate fellowship program from 19 to 25 scholarships and have increased the grants from $1,000 to $1,250, plus tuition where it is needed. These scholarships are awarded by 14 universities to promising young scientists and engineers. We hope some of them may later work with Standard of California, but there is no obligation either in their choice of studies or career.

This is the eleventh year of these Scholarship Awards. It is our sincere hope they will help develop the well-trained men and women who can best insure continued progress for the West and the whole United States.

"I Hated Those Good Looking Fellows..."

(A Letter from Germany)

A subscription to the International Readers Digest, sent to a stranger, opened the way to correspondence. The following is the greater portion of a letter just received from Miss Ingeborg Enck, Frankfort/Main, Germany, by Emeline Harrington, Carmel.

The standard of living here in Germany has really become much better after the currency reform, now we can buy almost everything, although the cost of living is very high (especially in Frankfurt which has always been a pretty expensive place to live.) I sometimes don't know how to come through the month—I never have enough money. My salary is a pretty good one, but I have to support my mother whom I fetched from the Russian Zone last year. She gets only a very little pension, which is not enough to buy all the food we get on our ration cards; and she will not only eat, she must have new clothes and everything. We were bombed out in 1944 and my mother—together with my grandmother who was still living then—moved to Chemnitz in Saxony which is now in the Russian Zone. We made a big mistake in transferring our money to a Chemnitz bank. Maybe you know that the Russians took all bank and saving accounts that were established before the end of the war. So we lost everything and what little was left in my Frankfurt saving account was swallowed by the currency reform. So I have to buy everything on my salary which is not enough to support the two of us and to buy clothes and furniture and everything. But I hope I will get a pay raise soon and with the prices dropping now I will be able to establish a new home for us.

When the Americans came to Hesse I was sick in the hospital and when I came out the war was over, the firm was "gone with the wind" and so I came back to Frankfurt, without any money and without a word from my family. I did not hear from them till 1946. My grandmother had died then and my mother was starving. My only brother has been missing in Russia since 1944. So I was all alone and had to try to build up a new life for myself. First I knitted sweaters for a little fashion shop, but what I earned was not enough. So when I heard over the radio that the American labor office was looking for typists who could speak a little English, I went there and after two weeks of training in the typing school I got a job with the foreign exchange depository. I started there as a clerk typist and after a while I became secretary of my boss, a young American from Boston. He was head of the Accounts and Reports Section and mainly handled court fines collected by Military Government courts. But at the end of 1947 court fines were turned over to the German authorities and so I had very little to do. I do not like to sit around and pretend to be busy, so I quit my job there and became Secretary to the Plans and Allocations Branch Commerce and Industry Group, Bipartite Control Office. And here I am still. My boss is a very nice old gentleman, a former German university professor who immigrated to the United States in 1936. He is very good to me and I like my job very much.

Shortly after the war I did not want to work for the Americans, not for love and money. I hated them all heartily. I think you can understand that. One day before the Americans came I saw the German soldiers come by hungry and ragged, many without weapons, a pity to look at, and then the Americans came, riding on tanks, clean and well-fed and, knowing that the war was lost for us, that our brothers and fathers and husbands had fought and died for nothing, I hated those good looking fellows with all my heart. But after some time when I became sober and came to know some of them, I began to like them, because they were good-natured big boys, although they were very ignorant sometimes and had no understanding for our situation.

I think people in the world should try to understand each other better, and I know that especially the Germans are always ready to learn from others. Sometimes this is a big mistake, because they always think that what other people do is, much better than that their own people do, they never really appreciate what is done in their own country. People abroad often think that the Germans are rough and cruel and like to make wars. We hate war as well as others do and our love for what you people call militarism does not come from our love for wars, but from our love for discipline. This is a very important fact which you should realize to understand us better. Germans are different from Americans and

I don't think that the American form of democracy is the right one for Germany. Germans like to work and to be told what to do. They will do what they think appropriate and then want to be left alone. They are not politically clever but they are thankful for everything that is done for them. If it was not for his first good deeds (they were mostly fake I know now), Hitler would never have become what he was, the "great" dictator.

You people say we should have known what was going on in Germany, well, I did not know it. I did not know until after the war that there were other concentration camps than Dachau. I did not even know the names of those places where they were. I never heard the name of Buchenwald or Belsen before. And when we were told about them I did not believe it, because I simply could not imagine that Germans could be that cruel. I, personally, am not interested in politics—politics is always a dirty business as I have often seen—but I love my country, and so I often think about what is going on in Germany and in the world. The Burnberg court had our generals and out political leaders hanged—maybe it was right although I am not quite sure of it—but nobody is going to do something about those people in Russia who let thousands of German prisoners of war starve to death, everybody is talking about democracy, but the British send German laborers to jail who refused to dismantle their own working place. I don't think that this is true democracy. And is it democracy that we are not allowed to use the main entrance of our office building, but have to use the back door? I think if we are good enough to work for the Allies, we should be good enough to use the same door. And I think there was another big mistake made. If the Allies had treated us fairly after the war and not like a bunch of criminals, the Germans would have kissed their feet, happy as they were that the war was over, and if they are treated better now they think it is only because the political situation between West and East is not very promising at the moment. Americans wasted lots of food under the eyes of starving children. They threw numberless pieces of furniture out of the window when thousands of Germans did not have even a bed or a chair. Thus one cannot teach democracy to poor people. The Marshall Plan is a good thing. I do appreciate it because I know how much is coming into Germany that way—but the Germans do not want to be fed by other people, they want to work and earn their living themselves. If we had not the main part of our industry dismantled, we would be able to export enough to pay for our imports. I do not intend to talk about right or wrong but these are facts that should not be overlooked.

I guess we all have to learn quite a lot until there will be a real understanding in the world. I hope you will understand what I mean. It is a little hard to put down on paper. It is much easier to say than to write and it is very difficult to explain it in a foreign language. I could much better say it in German. What I mean is that there are still many things in the world not known by many people who thus get an entirely wrong impression. That's why I like to write to an American, to say what I think, what many people think in Germany, so that at least a few Americans come to know what the Germans are like. I would like to go to the States myself and tell everybody. It is much easier to understand each other when you can talk to each other directly.

I do not want to emigrate. I love Germany. It is such a beautiful country, even now with its rubble piles. We had good times here and I think we should not leave it now, in bad times.

With the best wishes,
Yours,
Inge Enck.

The Time Has Come . .

By Kippy Stuart

This year we had determined to have perfect roses. In years past I have been an eager beaver during the first few months, and along about July my interest got dampened, and I gave up the struggle. Every conceivable ill seems to attack roses, but in 1949 my garden was going to listen to reason, or else.

So, as soon as the pruning season was over, I sprayed diligently for all possible pests. Spray or no spray, as soon as the tiny leaves came forth, there was aphid, all ready to go to work. We immediately sprayed again and again, all sorts of spray for all sorts of misery. After this last foray, I was sure that roses were on their way, but I was sure too soon. Within the past hour the garden and I have had a consultation. Green globs of aphid, strolling brown aphid, midge aphid in pretty colors, abound, and to make everything miserable mildew has set in.

I heaved a sigh and turned to the books. No one in their right mind would ever attempt roses after reading what can happen to them. Just listen to the list of tragedies that await roses. Aphid, black-spot, brown canker, Japanese beetle, leaf-hopper, mildew, red spider, rose chafer, and thrip. Each one of these ills demand different treatment. In order, as stated above, the cures are: sulphur, nicotine, fungus spray, aresnic, D. D. T., pyrethrum and rotonone. Fortunate for the gardener, commercial sprays are combinations of several of these cures, but before cure can set in, diagnosis comes first, and what amateur is experienced enough to diagnose trouble that is about to happen? Garden charts help a lot, for the experts have determined at about what season certain ills are imminent.

Some roses are more resistant to trouble than others. The golden emblem, aside from being a superb rose, seems to gather fewer pests. The golden emblem boasts both bush and climbing varieties. The large cream-yellow flowers are fragrant and excellent for cutting. Etoile de Hollande (star of Holland) is a crimson rose with touches of black on the petals. This rose is not fragrant, but is safer to place in this locality than other red roses. Paul's Scarlet grows from one border of the country to the other, showering even the hot middle west with crimson glory. But this glory does not outlast the first month of growth without super care. Paul's Scarlet is vulnerable to all rose diseases.

One of the most startling roses is The Doctor. This rose does very well in our locality and when the bush begins to bud one stands in amazement, for sure enough, it starts out to be an American Beauty of tradition, and almost succeeds. Not quite. The color of The Doctor is slightly more red, but the roses are equally as large as the American Beauty, and deliciously fragrant.

There are many, many other good roses, but beware before planting them. Be prepared to work like the mischief, or be prepared for disappointment. Oh yes, I can hear some of you say, "Well, my roses are all right." My reply is, "Give 'em time, give 'em time. They are on their way."

Mabel Corey

Miss Mabel Corey, 86, who had made her home in Carmel for the past 11 years, died Monday morning at her residence at Santa Fe and Eighth streets. She was a native of Illinois and a retired school teacher.

Surviving are a niece, Mrs. Dorothy Green Chapman of Carmel; a grandniece, Mrs. Julian Tyler of Berkeley, and a grandnephew, William Chapman of San Francisco.

Traffic Increase Results In Accidents

With hundreds of visitors pouring into town over the past weekend to spend the Easter week holidays here, Carmel police have reported a number of accidents as a result of the great increase in traffic.

Painfully injured was Mrs. Edith Thatcher of Carmel who received a broken shoulder and other injuries in a three-car crash at Monte Verde and Eighth streets last Saturday. She was taken to the Peninsula Community Hospital by the Red Cross ambulance. Mrs. Laura LoMonaco of Monterey was slightly injured in the second car involved, driven by K. D. Harvey of Monterey, who also received minor injuries. The third car, which was parked, is owned by Mrs. Calvin Patee of Berkeley.

Reports were made by investigating officers on several other accidents, all of which were minor.

There'll Always Be a "Gawker"

"Harry the Hermit," as he's called, came into town last week and, as usual, caused quite a stir. He looks like a cross between Santa Claus and Daniel Boone.

We had a friendly glass of beer together and I asked him, "Don't you ever get annoyed at the way some people laugh and stare as you go by?" "Shucks no," Harry says. "Only while they're laughin' at me, I'm feelin' a mite sorry for them. Imagine—folks so ungrateful they can't see I'm really just the same as they are underneath."

From where I sit, Harry's a lot more "civilized" than the people who make fun of him. He's contented, lives the way he believes is right without harming anyone—and what's more, he's tolerant of others whose tastes in living are different from his.

Maybe we all don't look the same, or act the same, or eat or drink the same, but in a free country, why should we?

World's Biggest Pipeline will bring more natural gas to California

This Giant Gasway will bring a tremendous new supply of natural gas to California all the way from Texas and New Mexico. P. G. and E.'s section of the 1600 mile project will be 506 miles long, 34 inches in diameter—the biggest high pressure gas line undertaken anywhere. Work starts this Spring. For months to come, men and machines will be trenching and laying pipe through desert and prairie, across mountains and rivers. First deliveries of 150,000,000 cubic feet a day are due Jan. 1, 1951.

Power trenchers will sink sharp metal teeth into the earth along a route from Texas and New Mexico to Needles on the California-Arizona border...then on to the Bay Area for distribution.

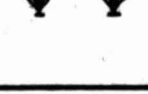

More fuel for California homes and factories—the new line ultimately can deliver more than 400,000,000 cubic feet of gas a day. That's nearly equal to the present average customer demand.

FOR THE RECORD

Nearly 200,000 tons of steel will be used in the California section of the line.

The gas will be fed into P. G. and E.'s distribution network of nearly 11,000 miles of gas lines.

AAUW Analysis Of Radio Programs

Children's Radio — Today, Tomorrow, is the theme of a panel discussion, sponsored by the American Association of University Women, Mrs. Norman Naas, president, at the Carmel Woman's club house next Wednesday evening, April 20, at 8 o'clock. The meeting is open to the public, no admission charged, with special invitation to members of the Parent-Teachers Association, fathers as well as mothers, and all persons interested in improving radio programs for adults as well as for children. Speakers are three members of the A. A. U. W. radio listening committee of San Francisco Bay branch, who have been active in this field for the past 10 years.

The Monterey Peninsula committee, headed by Miss Eleanor Mary Henry, who arranged this public program, are finishing the second year of their study, which is concerned with the news commentators heard on the San Francisco stations.

Members of the group who have carried on the study with Miss Henry are Miss Harriet Baker, Miss Mabel Hoffman, Miss Effa Spencer, Mrs. Blanchard Steeves, Miss L. Lucile Turner, Mrs. H. P. Underwood, and Miss Frances Whitehead. Their next meeting will be on April 28 at 5:30 with a box supper at Miss Henry's home on Dolores at Second street.

ORDINANCE NO. 97 N. S.

AN ORDINANCE OF INTENTION RELATIVE TO THE ABANDONMENT OF A PORTION OF DEL MAR AVENUE, CARMEL-BY-THE-SEA, CALIFORNIA.

THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF CARMEL-BY-THE-SEA DOES ORDAIN AS FOLLOWS:

SECTION 1. The Ordinance Code of the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea is hereby amended by the addition to Part 9 thereof of Division 5 entitled "VACATION OF CITY STREETS" and composed of Section 977, which section shall read as follows:

"DIVISION 5

"VACATION OF CITY STREETS
"Section 977. The City Council of the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea hereby declares its intention to vacate all that portion of Del Mar Avenue in the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea lying southerly and westerly of a point twenty (20) feet northerly of the southern boundary of Lot 3, Block C-2, Map of "Addition No. 8 Carmel-by-the-Sea, Monterey County, California, Surveyed by H. D. Severance December 1921", filed for record February 28, 1922, in the office of the County Recorder of the County of Monterey, State of California, in Volume 3 of Maps, "Cities and Towns", at page 19, copy of which is on file in the office of the City Clerk of the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea.

"The City Council of said City hereby fixes 7:45 P. M. on the evening of Wednesday, May 4, 1949, in the City Hall of said City as the time when and the place where all persons interested in or objecting to the proposed vacation shall be heard.

"The Superintendent of Streets of said City is hereby directed to post conspicuously along the part of the said avenue proposed to be vacated, notices not more than three hundred (300) feet apart, and at least three (3), referring in bold print the passage of this Ordinance and the time and place of the said hearing.

"Notice is further given that on vacating the said portion of Del Mar Avenue the said City Council intends to reserve and except from the vacation the permanent easement and right at any time, or from time to time, to construct, maintain, operate, replace, remove and renew or to grant to other political subdivisions of the State of California the right to construct, maintain, operate, replace, remove and renew sanitary sewers and storm drains and appurtenant structures in, upon, over and across all parts of said Del Mar Avenue proposed to be vacated and to construct, maintain, operate, replace, remove, renew and enlarge lines of pipes, conduits, cables, wires, poles and other convenient structures, equipment and fixtures for the operation of gas pipelines, telegraph and telephone lines and for the transportation or distribution of electric energy, water and incidental purposes.

"Notice is further given that all proceedings to be taken in respect of the vacation of said portion of Del Mar Avenue shall be taken subject to the reservations and exceptions last above referred to."

SECTION 2. All ordinances and parts of ordinances in conflict with this ordinance shall be and they are hereby repealed.

SECTION 3. The City Clerk of said City is hereby instructed to cause this ordinance to be published once in THE CARMEL PINE CONE, the official newspaper of said City, within fifteen (15) days after its final passage and approval.

CERTIFICATION OF CITY CLERK

I, the undersigned, City Clerk of the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea, do hereby certify that the foregoing is a true and correct copy of Ordinance No. 97 N. S., which was given its first reading at a regular meeting of the City Council of the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea held on the 9th day of March, 1949, and finally adopted at a regular meeting of the said Council on the 6th day of April, 1949.

I further certify that upon its passage the foregoing Ordinance was signed by the Mayor of said City and attested by the City Clerk thereof.

DATED this 7th day of April, 1949.

FIELD TRIP

BY DORIS SCHMIDDELL

It has always been my contention that, photographically speaking, the lone wolf brings home the kill. Take pictures with a group and inevitably what do you get? Pictures of the group.

When the finished color slide is projected I prefer to see the curve of hill or river to the curve of my fellow photographer's thigh.

So when the Camera Club planned Field Trips and we were asked to raise our hands if we were going, my hands stayed folded in my lap. And when comments were made about how few members turned out for these events and "why didn't more people go?" I said I expected weekend guests or a severe cold on the date they had chosen.

At a recent meeting of our camera club a trip to photograph the blossoming fruit trees in the Santa Clara Valley was under discussion and there was a difference of opinion as to where the group should meet for lunch. Some suggested a spot fairly remote from the blossom country and others a place in the center of it. Forgetting that I was going to have a cold that weekend, I found myself in the midst of the argument, staunchly supporting the heart of the blossom country, and when we won, I went on the trip.

A friend and I set the alarm for early Sunday morning, while the sun was still a suggestion in the east, and loaded the car with everything a photographer thinks he is going to need for a day's trip. This leaves a small space into which one can squeeze a light lunch.

Our object was to take as many good pictures as we could on the way as long as this did not seriously interfere with our reaching the meeting place, the Saratoga High School grounds, at 1:30. So we started, one eye on Sunday traffic, the other on the lookout for photogenic scenery, when my friend said, "Those sheep might make a good picture." I jammed on the brakes, trucks, trailers and cars streamed around us with muttered curses, and my friend got out to take the picture. Nearby was a beguiling little road that seemed to wander off in the fields. I decided to drive up it and turn around. I found green hills, new, pink buds and tender green leaves, but no turning place. An hour later, on my way back to the highway, I met my friend panting up the hill, ready to administer first aid if I had gone over a bank and to walk to Saratoga if I'd gone off and left her.

So I said, "If we take this long for every picture, we'll never meet the others for lunch," and stepped on the gas. We shot out into traffic and across a bridge. "Look," I said, "just look at those reflections!" The brakes squealed and we walked back onto the bridge to get the reflections.

We measured the light with our meters, set the openings and the shutter speeds and—the sun went behind a cloud. We started again, she kneeling on the bridge, I hanging over the edge in very graceful postures. Everything was set. A car came by. The occupants tooted the horn and waved. We turned around. By the time we had decided who was in the car, whether they were camera club members or just friends, where they were going, why hadn't they stopped, the sun came out again and we had to start over.

An hour later we got back in the car and decided we'd better hurry or we'd never get there for lunch. At Gilroy we turned off on the Uvas Dam road, famous for its blossoms. The trees were barren and wintry. We drove on and on. Finally another bridge. More reflections. We stopped. By this time we had agreed that we would not take identical pictures. So I left my friend to her reflections and wandered off through the countryside.

I hadn't gone far when I saw blossom trees, lovely ones, waving in the breeze, petals blowing, clouds scudding across the sky, a little farm dog of doubtful parentage chasing bees—a photographer's paradise. I worked madly—sidelighting, backlighting, front lighting, composition and more composition. I stopped to rest. I looked up. A few feet away was my friend, also working madly, sidelighting, backlighting, front lighting. She looked up. We had taken exactly the same pictures.

An hour later we got back in the car and drove a hundred yards, where I had seen some rocks and an old wood pile. I was sure that I could take a picture of this that would rival the combined efforts of Edward Weston and Ansel Adams at their best. I got out my camera, then the light meter, the lens shade, the color filter, the range finder, the tripod, and I put in a new film.

The plowed ground was uneven, but I did finally get the tripod level. Just then my friend said, "Here comes that cocker spaniel that was over in the orchard." I said, "That's not a cocker spaniel." She said, "You're not looking at the right one; he's behind the barn." A second dog came out. I said, "That's not a cocker spaniel." She said, "You're not looking at the right one. He's still behind the barn." I said, "Please go away or we will never get to the meeting place by 1:30." So she went away, with the two dogs following her. The third dog came from behind the barn. It was a cocker spaniel. Everything was now ready to take my masterpiece of the wood pile. Beautiful silvery gray wood with the warm sunlight glancing off it and a dark oak tree above it for contrast. I clicked the shutter and wound the film to the second picture. That was when I found out I had not wound it to the first.

An hour later I went back to the car. My friend was nowhere to be seen. At last I spied her in a school yard photographing a rock. Our next contest is to be

Dr. Billie's Garden

By L. A. W.

For some reason I have an urge right now to revert to my role of pedagogue. A few days ago I heard a very prominent man speaking to a small group of men on one aspect of health. As he talked I realized he was very effectively preaching the gospel of need.

That is a vital gospel and should be preached more often and more widely. One very small feature of it is its value as a guide to our choices in life. We are forever having to make selections and frequently the interesting thing, the pleasing behavior, the road to happiness—often ephemeral—vies with the needful thing, the necessary behavior, the rugged road.

There is no place better than a vegetable garden in which to observe need operating as a selective agent. Take carrots, for example. I provide a good supply of color elements in the food I give the whole garden. But from all these elements the carrot chooses those which its needs as a carrot demand. The particular where-withal to make orange for its roots, green for its leaves, and as it matures, maroon and yellow also for its leaves.

Then right along in the next row, not more than a foot and a half away are beets. They need the makings for red coloring, and some need also white for those delicate rings. For their leaves they choose the ingredients for building green and yellow and maroon and blood red or orange for the stems, each according to its species. All this in terms of becoming the best beet that its nature demands.

That is exactly what children do in school. We supply a pabulum made up of what we think they need. They take and appropriate only what they think they need. Frequently, too, they protest because they do not find either in school or at home the nutrients they think they need. Frequently they mistake interesting, fascinating, glamorous pabulum for needful, sustaining, long-lasting foods. They reach for the cokes instead of for the milk. The hardest job any parent or teacher has is to lead children to accept and appropriate what they need for growth, and to pass up what at the moment is merely interesting or pleasant. (There is, of course, no objection in the world to making the nourishing pabulum both interesting and pleasant. It just takes a little doing.)

The most we can do for vegetables and for children alike is to provide the richest and most abun-

Colorado Man Appreciates Saddle

Vince Kerwin of Pueblo, Colorado, who had the lucky number in the matter of Red Eagle's saddle, wrote a letter of appreciation this week to Frank Flynn of the Boot and Saddle Shop. He writes, in part:

Dear Mr. Flynn:

I received the saddle and blanket this morning which you shipped me. It is in very good condition. Evidently Red Eagle did not put many miles on it.

I would like to write to the parties who handled the raffle and pulled my ticket out of the hat and thank them if I knew who they were. But I am going to leave it to you to do it for me. I hate to bother you after all the trouble you went to getting the saddle packed, etc., so am enclosing $5.00 for you to pass on to the ones responsible for my lucky number being pulled. I can sure use the saddle as I had to dispose of mine.

dant nutrients possible. The gospel of need will take care of the vegetables; it will have to be taught to the children. Let's not forget our goal—to help vegetables and children grow and develop in keeping with their nature and destiny.

the last time I had a baby.

Thanking you again for your kindly interest and hope I can do a favor for you some time I am yours very truly, Vincent Kerwin.

P. S. I can sure brag about the honesty of the Carmel folks. I know it kind of hurts to have some bird in another state come in and horn in on a raffle and win the grand prize. I have taken chances in other states before this but this is the first time to win. However, I don't doubt but my ticket just didn't win in the other states. And I admit myself it is nice to have the home town win. Am a home town booster myself.

Do You Remember . . . ?

ROME — 1906

BY A. G. WARSHAWSKY

Although I did not as yet venture to sketch out in the crowded streets, the view from our window was not to be resisted. The palm-shaded piazza, a corner of the old harbor beyond, and a glimpse of Vesuvius in the distance, inspired my first Italian sketch. Long as the days were, they hardly sufficed to get in all we wished to see and do. There were the famous Museum with the magnificent Greek and Pompeian bronzes, the picture gallery (somewhat of a disappointment after the sculptures), and above all, the matchless surroundings of Naples. Entire days were spent sketching at Posilippo. Gradually my eyes were becoming trained to seeing color. The sea was purple and blue, with here and there reddish streaks, and at our feet the water looked a pale and luminous green. The raw earth showed red and often cadmium or yellow. As for the sky, apparently so simply and serenely blue, the more I gazed at it, the more varied it became in color and tone: verging on purple at the dome, pink, yellow, and pale green near the horizon, while in the heat of the day streaks of rose and yellow seemed to vibrate over the whole.

A new world was beginning to unfold itself to me. It seemed as if up to this time I had been blind. Halpert, with his experience and knowledge of color, was doing beautiful things, and I was profiting to a great extent through his companionship. It is true that my studies were still very crude, but I worked less timidly and attempted combinations of color which hitherto had been taboo to me. The mysteries of cool and warm color and color complementaries were here before me in all aspects of Nature.

In the fields about us we could hear the peasants singing as they worked—rich, wild voices, with that peculiar warmth of color which I had already noticed on the all too rare occasions when I had heard Caruso sing at the Metropolitan in New York. What I now sensed with my eyes—the new and unsuspected beauties of light and color—was then already revealed through sound in the accents of that matchless voice.

One day was spent at Pompei, wandering through the ruins with friend Baedeker as guide, thanks to whom, once we had shaken off the clamorous swarm of ciceroni—no easy task—we were able to see and enjoy all we had a mind to, without being hurried. We took our lunch on the steps of a temple.

Another of the expeditions we had planned was the ascent of Vesuvius. Setting out very early one morning, we took a streetcar that brought us near the foot of the ascent. Early as it was, the sun was already very warm and growing ever warmer as we began to toil up the stony paths. The only shade obtainable was that of a ruined wall here and there, and of these we availed ourselves to rest, surrounded by myriads of little lizards, popping in and out of the old masonry, from which they were hardly distinguishable in color.

As we ascended, we were thrilled by the sight of a god-like creature, barefooted and in short breeches, carrying a basket on his head, who was walking in front of us, swaying gracefully—the living replica of a Greek athlete we had admired in the Naples Museum. But as we approached the divine creature, the ambient air grew of a sudden noisesome with a most vile stench. Walk as we would, we could not escape it. There seemed no visible cause to explain it, until we saw the god-like being in front of us stop, put down his basket and proceed with shovel and broom to sweep something into it from the roadway. Then we realized we had been following the local garbage department.

After endless toiling and climbing we seemed no nearer the summit than when we had start-

THOROUGHFARES

*What has become of the thoroughfare
Out where the wind begins?
Why are the pixies now not there
That danced on leaves and chinquapins,
And hid the nuts a squirrel could spare,
And made up tricks men would not dare
Out where the wind begins?*

*What has become of the thoroughfare
Out where a wave begins?
Why are the mermaids now not there
That once with flutes and mandolins
Made summer sing and winter spare
The ships that sailed beyond "beware"
Out where a wave begins?*

—HELEN NIVENS.

HILL PASTURE

*No grieving spring will leave her traces here,
But rather joyful symphonies of leaves;
The hedges glow with hidden ecstasies
That have lain fallow through long, arduous snows;
No thrush's note is muted for the still
Un-failing beauty of the ended years;
No earthly music need be stilled to hear
Youth's careless laughter on this golden hill.
How strangely now, the spring creeps in at dusk,
And sprinkles stars upon this verdant place;
Old fencerows bloom again; but quieter
The voice of crested jay and whippoorwill.
The pear tree drops her listless blossoms down . . .
A part of all this new quiescent pain
The song of years brings from the truant night
To one apart upon this lonely hill.*

APRIL RAIN IN CHICAGO

*Blows of riveters
Hurrying
Through the tumult of the sky.

Pneumatic hammers drumming
Ceaselessly
Upon the skeleton of a growing skyscraper.*

*Relentless rain
Cutting
Down with swift, slanting strokes,*

*Like penmanship
Scratched
By an old schoolmaster.*

*Red and blue neon lights
Gleaming
Dully through the grey mist.*

—M. C. MADDOCK.

ed. Finally we spied a modest caravansary on the hillside, surrounded by a few shady trees. Feeling that rest and refreshment would put new heart into us, we made for the little trattoria. A homey stew was simmering on the charcoal oven. On this and goat's cheese we made an excellent meal, with a bottle of genuine Lacrimachristi, the famous wine grown on the slopes of Vesuvius. Remembering the inscription we had seen in an excavated wineshop at Pompei, Nihil si semel! (evidently the classic equivalent of "just one more!"), we ordered a second bottle, after which a brief siesta under the trees became imperative, for our heads were dizzy with the ardent fumes of the Vesuvian vintage.

When we awoke, it was nearly sunset, and there was only time to hurry back down the steep hillside to catch our last tram for Naples. Thus ended our ascent of Vesuvius!

The fortnight we had allotted to Naples over, we started to collect our impedimenta. This had increased considerably, owing to the accumulation of sketches. Most of these had not had time to dry, so we were forced to make voluminous parcels, packing the sketches in pairs, separated by intervening corks to prevent their sticking together. Thus encumbered, we started for Rome.

When we arrived in the Eternal City, a rain-storm of quite classical dimensions and fury was raging. These veritable cloudbursts are fairly frequent in spring and autumn, and while they last, luckily not long, the only thing for man and beast is to get under shelter. Neither umbrella nor mackintosh is any protection against the deluge which turns the seven hills into so many cata-racts.

Fortunately, we had reserved a room at a pension in the Via Bocca di Leone, near the Piazza di Spagna, in the heart of the aristocratic old-world district, which has still escaped the fury for modernization of Roman architects. The room turned out to be a vast apartment, big enough to contain an entire modern Paris flat. Our two beds and the essential furniture seemed lost in an ocean of space. Three windows opened on the street, whereon the old-world paving served alike for vehicles and foot passengers, no separate sidewalk being reserved for the latter.

Our fellow-lodgers were a typically cosmopolitan set, including the inevitable elderly Englishwomen, a buxom German Frau who went in for painting, a French couple, and some Austrians. Throughout our trip we met more Germans than any other foreign nationality, for at that time the "tedeschi" were very popular in Italy. The owner of the pension, a good-looking, well dressed Italian, sat at the head of the table and did the directing. We were struck by the fact that nearly all our table companions had small bottles of pills or medical potions, which they took during meals. Everyone was served with a half bottle of red wine. The heavy, spicy cooking seemed to need the addition of wine to aid the digestion, which was further stimulated by a siesta, as I found. As the weather had already turned very warm, it was impracticable to go out of doors during the hot afternoons, and the siesta became a habit we adopted throughout our Italian trip.

The time-honored saying of "doing in Rome as the Romans do" we found to be the only practical rule of life. Accordingly, we arose early and did all our sight-seeing in the morning, mostly on foot or by tramcar. Only on the occasions of our arrival and departure did we resort to cabs. After lunch and siesta we would turn to sketching in the nearby gardens of the Pincio and the Villa Borghese, or in some secluded piazza or side street. As for subjects and motifs, there was an "embarras du choix." Every street, every square, almost every house, had its distinctive character, except, of course, in the blatant modern quarters, which, I for one, refuse to regard as belonging to Rome, however much they may belong to the Capital of Italy.

Engagement Announced

Congratulations from their many friends were in order last weekend with the announcement of the engagement of Miss Lee Campbell to Howard Bjorkman.

Miss Campbell is from Campbell and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Campbell, also of Campbell. Miss Campbell, a registered nurse, is a frequent visitor in Carmel Valley. She is the niece of Deputy Sheriff Elliot Marrs.

Her fiancé is a resident of Robles del Rio and is the brother of Mrs. Norma Johnson, also of Robles del Rio.

The wedding will take place in the early fall, and they will make their home in the Valley.

Autograph Party

Madame Jehanne Bietry-Salinger, editor of Notre Centenaire: The Franco-California Centennial Guide, was recently honor guest at an autograph party given in Normandy Lane in the City of Paris in San Francisco. The book, written and published in the French language, has just been published in San Francisco and contains, among many other features, a 64 page directory of the population of French birth or French descent.

Madame Bietry-Salinger has lectured in Carmel and was once the subject of a Pine Cone interview by Glenn Clairmonte.

Thanks From Russ

Russell Bohlke suffered a relapse two weeks ago, and his intention to write a lot of letters can't be realized, so we'd like to help him out by saying thanks for him to the Legionnaires and all his friends for the gift of government bonds and for the spirit behind their action. Thanks goes, also, for Mr. and Mrs. Bohlke who, with the rest of us, are pulling hard for Russ' recovery.

Palm Springs Popular

Carmelites seem to run into one another wherever they go. Mrs. W. W. Coates, Sr., who has just returned from a month at Palm Springs, met numerous friends while there, among them Mrs. Bernice Low, who has now gone on to Los Angeles. Mrs. Coates enjoyed her stay at the desert resort and liked particularly the Tennis Club and the Racquet Club, where she spent a lot of time.

Sausalito Visit

Mrs. Ramona C. Gahl of Carmel Point returned this week after a three weeks' visit at the home of Colonel and Mrs. Chester Dennis in Sausalito. Her stay was a gay and busy one and kept her rushing from teas to parties, as well as to the ballet and numerous plays in San Francisco.

On April 1 Mrs. Lodema Murray came up from Carmel for the weekend, and Mrs. Dennis entertained at a tea on Sunday in honor of her house guests.

Scout Leaders Meet

Girl Scout Leaders met Wednesday, April 6, at the Monterey Girl Scout House to complete plans for the International Picnic (family day for Girl Scouts) at the Monterey Fair Grounds on Sunday, April 24. Troops selling food will open booths for business at 12:30 p. m. The program will start at 2 p. m., with teach troop representing a foreign country by dance, song or skit.

Leadership course for Brownie Leaders will be held at Monterey Girl Scout House at 9:30 a. m., April 12, 14, and 19; old and new leaders are invited to attend.

Junior Council representatives will meet at the Monterey Girl Scout House on Wednesday, April 20, at 4:15 p. m.

Leaders will meet at the same place April 22, at 10 a. m., to make tin-can stoves, and on April 26, at 9:30 a. m., for a breakfast cook-out. Reservations should be made at Girl Scout office.

Mrs. Drilea's talk in the Outdoor Training series concluded the meeting, which was followed by a "nosebag" lunch. Attending were Mrs. Peter Bramhall, Mrs. George C. Rowan, Mrs. Leo Branson, Mrs. Lawrence De Quincy, Mrs. Mercer Beall, Mrs. C. M. Goldsworthy, Mrs. Ray Sutton, Mrs. James Drake, Mrs. James A. Hodgen, Mrs. Carl Berger, Mrs. Victor Drilea, Mrs. Gordon Wither, Mrs. Charles Chu and Mrs. Robert Getz.

Seattle Visitors

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Coats Harper of Seattle are enjoying their annual visit to Carmel. After a month in Death Valley and a leisurely trip, they are now at La Playa Hotel.

First Centennial Event

Marin County will begin the state's Centennial celebration on May 22, when the Mountain Play Association presents Dan Totheroh's new comedy, Rough 'n' Ready, in the Tamalpais amphitheater as the thirty-second annual Mountain play. Author Totheroh will stage and direct the play.

Summer before last saw Totheroh direct his play, Distant Drums, in the Forest Theater for the benefit of the Carmel Boys' Club. In that production Connie Flavin played the part originally enacted by Pauline Lord in the Broadway production.

Visitors Leave

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Willard Ferris, friends of Dr. and Mrs. Jesse Williams, are on their way to Palm Springs prior to returning to the east. Mr. Ferris, who retired from the National City Bank of New York in January, and Mrs. Ferris, spent time in Carmel where they have been widely entertained. Though formerly they made their home in New York, the Ferrises now have a home on Lake Winnepesaukee in New Hampshire.

George Marek Visiting

A welcoming cocktail party on Friday introduced the Robert Stanton's house guest, George R. Marek, to their friends, and a full weekend of sightseeing and visiting followed.

Mr. Marek, commentator for the Metropolitan Opera program, is the author of A Front Seat at the Opera and a frequent contributor to periodicals. He is now at work on a book on Puccini and plans a trip to Italy soon to do research on the composer's life.

Attend Celebration

Mr. and Mrs. John E. Abernethy spent last weekend in San Jose with Mrs. Abernethy's sister and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Bryan. Children, grandchildren, brothers and sisters, about 25 in all, were on hand to extend congratulations to the Bryans on their Golden Wedding anniversary, and Mrs. Abernethy reports that it was indeed a happy and gay celebration.

Robert St. John Here

Robert St. John, foreign correspondent, author and news commentator, was a guest at La Playa Hotel for a few days last week and a caller at the home of Marie Short, bringing messages from their mutual friend, Rhys Williams.

St. John, whose most recent books include From the Land of Silent People and The Silent People Speak, has recently returned from Palestine. Doubleday has just brought out his newest book, Shalom Means Peace, which is concerned with the new nation.

Milwaukee Visitors

Mr. and Mrs. N. B. Hillstrom of Milwaukee were in Carmel last week as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ostrich Nest.

Mental Hygiene Society

Arnold Edman, acting secretary of the Monterey County Chapter of the Mental Hygiene Society of Northern California, has announced that the organization will meet in room 11, Monterey Union High School, April 21, at 8 p. m. The purpose of the meeting is to appoint a board of officers as recommended by the board of directors and to discuss future plans.

Anniversary Celebration

Hazel and Paul McKinstry didn't even remember their wedding anniversary on April 9, and it took a congratulatory telegram to remind them it was time to celebrate the event. Fortunately, they had already gathered friends at their house for cocktails before taking them out to dinner, and had all the necessary components for a fine party to proceed without delay.

Junior Stamp Club

The Junior Monterey Peninsula Stamp Club will hold its next meeting with Peter Ferrante at Sunset School on April 16 at 11 a. m.

The youngsters will meet on May 7 for an auction, and it is expected there will be some hot competition for rare items.

The Johnson brothers show some of their work to their banker friend, the manager of their local branch of Bank of America.

Coming from Oklahoma with two assets—$4.68 and machine shop experience—these men established themselves in Kerman, California. A Bank of America loan helped them get started. Today, proprietors of a thriving business, they say: "We'd never have made it if it hadn't been for Bank of America."

Taylor's Hold Barbecue

Sunday's fine weather was a natural invitation for outdoor gatherings, and the Bert Taylors took good advantage of it. Two charcoal grills were glowing for a barbecue and the male members of the party were required to live up to their boasts as chefs by preparing the ladies' choice of steak, chops, hamburgers and hot dogs. There was a lot of muttering and no little confusion as they got under way, but the results met with unqualified approval.

Friends who gathered around to enjoy the feast in the sunshine were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Bud Todd, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Stephenson, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Vial, Mr. and Mrs. George Wilcox, Mr. and Mrs. Herb Vial, Mrs. Marie Short, Mrs. Lois Dupham, Mrs. Dorothy Way, Mrs. Alice Hume, Sam Colburn, Toby Street, Jake Kenny, Dick Dettering and Dr. Eric Berne.

Poetry Read on Air

Two poems originally published in The Pine Cone were recently read on Arrows in the Air, a San Rafael radio program. The poems, California Poppyfield and Cambria Pines, were composed by Constance Walker, a resident of San Fernando valley.

Pictures Featured

The dramatic seventh hole on the Pebble Beach Golf course was featured in a double spread on Pebble Beach in the April issue of Town and Country. Julian Graham's photographs included informal shots of guests who have recently visited the Lodge, among them Ronald Colman, Mr. and Mrs. James M. Snoden of New York, Mr. and Mrs. Oakleigh Lewis Thorne of New York, Mr. and Mrs. A. Watson Armour III of Lake Forest, Ill., and Mr. and Mrs. William Worthington of Los Angeles.

Dr. Aurner Returns

Returning to Carmel Friday, April 8, Dr. Robert R. Aurner completed a six weeks' tour of the east, during which he served as consultant for several corporations, attended board of directors meetings for two others and conferred with his publishers.

As a pleasant personal conclusion to his trip, Dr. Aurner stopped in Iowa City for a few days' visit with relatives, then picked up his mother, Professor Nellie S. Aurner of the Department of English of the State University of Iowa. Professor Aurner continued the trip west with him to Carmel, where she will be a house guest of Dr. and Mrs. Aurner for about three months.

League of Women Voters

Plans for the annual meeting of the League of Women Voters were made by the board of directors on Monday afternoon at the home of the president, Mrs. Frances A. Ballard. As in the past the meeting will take the form of a picnic with box lunch beginning at 12:30, with the business afterward. It will be held at Los Laureles Lodge in Carmel Valley on Thursday, May 5, and the management will serve coffee and dessert at a reasonable price. Reports and election of officers and a look forward to the state convention at Asilomar the third week in May will furnish the day's program.

The nominating committee, which includes Mrs. Paul Low, Mrs. Louise Grigsby, Mrs. Frank Andrews, and Mrs. Nelson Miles Leoni, submitted the following slate to the members: for president, Mrs. Douglas Carter; first vice-president, Mrs. Edmond Sullivan; second vice-president, Mrs. Richard Lofton; recording secretary, Mrs. Leon Shappell; corresponding secretary, Mrs. L. C. Leeper; treasurer, Mrs. Peter J. Ferrante; board of directors, Mrs. Low, Mrs. Leoni, Mrs. Kenneth Ray, Mrs. Campbell Edgar, and Mrs. John Shephard. There may also be nominations from the floor.

As this is the hostess league for the convention, Mrs. Carter was appointed in March as general chairman and she is already receiving reservations from other leagues. Around 200 delegates are expected, with possible non-delegate members also attending. For the Monterey Peninsula L. W. V. Miss Orre Haseltine and Miss L. Lucile Turner were appointed delegates, with alternates to be chosen at the annual meeting.

Shades of Ben Johnson

If in a popular morning coffee spot you notice a small group adroitly maneuvering one another into paying the check, if from that group there are sounds of raucous laughter, and if you hear a lot of mad banter, it's probably the Coffee Club, unincorporated. The president varies according to who pays for coffee, and may be Ken Smith, Dan Totheroh, Clay Somers, Byron Birchell, Albert Van Houtte or the lone female member, "Chum" Edson. Topics of conversation, we shudderingly relate, range from the Van Houtte champagne to Familiar Quotations.

Audubon Field Trip

On April 24 the Monterey Peninsula Audubon Society will hold its monthly meeting and a field trip at Hastings Reservation. Members will meet there at 8 a. m., and should bring lunches.

Homeward Bound

Mr. and Mrs. Paul J. Vial, annual winter visitors on the Peninsula, left on Monday to spend a week in San Francisco before returning to their home, St. Cloud Ranch, on the Calumna River.

While in California the Vials were in the southern part of the state for six weeks, dividing their time between Palm Springs and La Jolla, which is winter headquarters for their daughter, Mrs. Nonie Mackenzie.

Mr. Vial is an enthusiastic fisherman, and for that reason the drive north is his particular portion of the trip, since it allows him to test his skill in all his favorite fishing spots.

Wayfarer Auxiliary

The regular monthly salad-dessert luncheon meeting of the Women's Auxiliary of the Church of the Wayfarer will be held Tuesday, at 12:30 p. m., in the social hall.

Devotions will be given by Mrs. J. Southwell. Speaker of the day will be Mrs. D. Pirie-Beyea, lecturer and news commentator for the past 30 years. A world traveler, she is now retired and lives on the Peninsula. Her topic will be World Events and Important People.

Luncheon reservations will be taken by Mrs. Guy L. Kell, chairman, at Carmel 29-R-3, or by the secretary of the church, Mrs. Harlan Reyburn, at 1540-W.

Mrs. Walter Kreisler, president, invites friends as well as members of the church to attend.

Spring Holiday

Mr. and Mrs. Weslie A. Stouffer were recent house guests at the Sunset Terrace cottage of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Gonzales and enjoyed the wonderful spring weather. Mr. Stouffer is the principal of the Ripon Union High School in the San Joaquin Valley.

Rollo Peters Host

Rollo Peters entertained at a cocktail party on Tuesday in honor of his guest, Mrs. Melchior Ferrer, who with her two children, Peppa and Mark, were here from Los Angeles this week. Fran, as she is known to her many friends here, reports that her husband is now in the east making a new movie but is expected back soon.

Mills College Awards

Two Carmel girls received awards for having the best personal libraries in a campus-wide competition, held in connection with annual Book Day at Mills College, Tuesday, April 12. First prize went to Florita Botts and third prize to Joan Larkey, both seniors.

Joan, who is the daughter of Mrs. Helen E. Larkey, is studying for a career in stage set design and production. She was recently here for the spring vacation.

Ex-Resident's Experiences

Appearing in the May issue of Pageant magazine is the article, I Walked on Fire, by Wilmon Menard, who lived in Carmel for five years. Mr. Menard's article tells of his experiences in Paea, Tahiti, where he actually walked on glowing stones, participating in a native ritual.

The Easter Bunny came early this year to the VILLAGE CORNER CANDY SHOP, where he left the most attractive and mouth watering array of Easter candy you ever did see! And the baskets he left are something special, for they're all designed with a purpose. One is skillfully woven to serve as an after-Easter champagne bottle holder, another will hold a wine bottle, and there's a beautifully colored Italian imported basket that would make the nicest kind of room decoration. Ribbon and cellophane fixins, of course, will provide the finishing touches to an Easter basket that will please just anybody. At the VILLAGE CORNER CANDY SHOP there's a brand new kind of Easter egg, too! Looks like a regular Easter-decorated hen's egg, but don't let that fool you! When you peel off the realistic wax coating there's a yummy chocolate filling! Don't forget — for that last minute candy egg or box of chocolates, it's the VILLAGE CORNER CANDY SHOP, right next to the post office.

Wear spring at your fingertips in the Easter Parade with lovely new accessories to match your Easter outfit. These complements you'll find at HARRIET DUNCAN'S, which is one of the best places to go in Carmel for those all-important finishing touches that really "make" your ensemble. We discovered a selection of those smart nylon gloves in all shades, and it's another happy fact that here you can find lots of springy straw bags and belts, too, for smart accent. You'll love the gay scarves to be worn a dozen different ways, as well as oodles of those bright 'n' beautiful new flowers to add zip to your costume. It's Sixth and Lincoln for HARRIET DUNCAN'S and all of these lovely finishing touches to your new spring outfit. And this also gives us a chance to add a "Happy Easter" to you from HARRIET DUNCAN.

Relax and dream of your soon-to-be slim 'n' trim waistline at the GYRODUCING Studio, where you'll find the most wonderful new way of reducing or easing tired muscles. Five pleasant minutes on the gyrolating table are equal to a five mile hike, so no need to convince you of the advantages of this method. Special gyrolating chairs also contribute to the top-toe treatment, but of course there's the separate facial or foot treatment if you prefer. No disrobing or no electricity to touch you, as circulation and all-over body condition are given a new lease by GYRODUCING, a massage that's every minute enjoyable. A free introductory demonstration of the regular $4.00 treatment is now being offered by Ruth Bixler and Reba Bellick, so make your appointment soon by calling 1676-M.

Definitely western, but adaptable to any costume is the "cowboy" jewelry we found at TWIGS OF CARMEL. Bright little lariat earrings make tiny loops to add sparkle to every outfit, so dainty are they. And the miniature hand-carved boot earrings will give a bit more horse and cowboy dash when you wear them with the matching saddle pin. This pin is beautifully carved from polished wood and trimmed in shades of light and dark brown, with minute green jewels for studding. TWIGS OF CARMEL is the place to go for anything from shirts to door-knobs, so you're sure to find just what you want. Ocean Avenue, just across from the Pine Inn.

Stumped on just what to choose for her Easter gift? We've found the perfect solution for you at PUTNAM AND RAGGETT'S, in a selection of nylon lingerie that's as lovely to wear as it is to look at. Nylon net trim sets off the soft nylon jersey of the gown, which comes in white, yellow, and blue, while dainty slips come in white nylon crepe. Practical, too, this lingerie, for nylon is the easiest of all fabrics to keep clean. Another very "Easterly" style of nightwear at PUTNAM AND RAGGETT'S is the adorable batiste nightgown in the popular shorty or the longer style. Frosty eyelet trim and ribbon bows make this gown utterly feminine in its pastel shades of blue, pink, and yellow. You'll gasp with amazement, too, at the very agreeable price of only $2.95! Make PUTNAM AND RAGGETT'S at San Carlos and Ocean a definite stop on your list for final Easter shopping.

Just what Carmel has needed! It's the TURNABOUT SHOP, just opened this week. Lots of wonderful like-new items, and even some brand new things in a grand selection of coats, suits, dresses, skirts, shoes, hats, children's clothing—everything! Darling formals for all ages, as well as a lovely showing of new baby garments is included in this group of excellent used clothing, most of it from out-of-town. No end of welcome bargains, or you can sell clothing, too, at the TURNABOUT SHOP, just across from the post office on Dolores. Antique glassware, knickknacks, and costume jewelry are to be had, too, so stop in and browse for whatever you like. The TURNABOUT SHOP is open every day except Tuesday, and also is open Tuesday evening for working gals.

Get in the mood of spring with a new Contour Haircut from WOODARD, HAIRSTYLIST. A specialty of Mr. Woodard's, he styles the haircut to your individual personality and the shape of your face. His ultimate goal is to bring out the latent beauty in you, and make you as lovely as possible.

Now is the time to do away with your winter look and really get in the swing of spring with a Contour Cut. If your morale needs a boost why not try an Eternal Oil Tint Shampoo? There are over twenty shades in this shampoo, which is absolutely harmless to your hair. WOODARD, HAIRSTYLIST, is located on the mezzanine floor in the San Carlos Hotel. Phone 7996 for your appointment.

An Easter gift that will be remembered for years, is one of the beautiful azalea or hydrangea plants from FLOR DE MONTEREY. The shrub is pruned in a special way to assure maximum blooming effort, and it would be impossible to find more blossoms on a single plant. With proper care, they will last for weeks, then when the blooming season is past, you still have a lovely shrub which will brighten a spot in your garden for many Easters to come.

There is a fine selection of caladium plants (commonly called elephants ear) with their colorful variegated leaves, and for those who prefer the more unusual, exotic tropical plants in many varieties. Of course the old familiar favorite, Easter lilies, in various price range. Something new this Easter is the mixed pot, containing beautiful combinations of lilies, hydrangea, caladium and azalea. All these, plus almost any cut flower you can name are to be had at FLOR DE MONTEREY. Let them help you with your Easter floral needs. They are located on Franklin across from the San Carlos Hotel.

Need new or additional patio furniture? Try the UNIQUE SHOP on Fremont Extension in Monterey. They specialize in patio equipment, and have just received a large shipment of Deeco durable aluminum furniture. This nationally advertised line is chip proof, dust proof and weather proof. It's hard to believe that such sturdy looking furniture could be so light in weight, and yet the chaise longue, (with 3 position adjustable back rest for sun-bathing, natch) can be moved about with only one finger. There are love seats, gliders, umbrella tables and the ever popular "director's" chair. Right now they have a "special" on the director's chair, so we suggest you hurry over there.

Smart sophistication for your indoor-outdoor living is a dining group in Chinese Modern. This handsome patio furniture in wrought iron would be equally at home in the most formal modern dining room. Sleekness and simplicity are typical of the Chinese influence, which is accentuated by the black lacquer finish, and the modern design print of the upholstery in beige, rust and black. The UNIQUE SHOP is located on Fremont Extension and the telephone number is 2-1557.

If you try a Dreamburger and a malt at the PARK DRIVE IN, you will soon become one of their steady customers, and join the ever increasing number of localities who love to drive over to Fremont Extension for one of their wonderful hamburgers. You would never dream that a mere hamburger could be so delicious. Of course, how they make them is a professional secret known only to Pearl, Eileen, Ruth and Kay—and professional is the word for the way they turn out these tasty sandwiches. Their cheeseburgers are also of the heavenly variety, and we think you'll agree when you taste one.

The PARK specializes in all types of sandwiches and soft drinks, so if you are in the mood for a drive and a snack, why not drop in? You can be served in your car, or eat in the charming little patio. They are located on Fremont Extension at the corner of Lopez.

Men of the Wayfarer

Harry M. Kimball, special agent in charge, F. B. I., San Francisco, will be the speaker for the Men of the Wayfarer at a dinner meeting on Thursday at 7 p. m. A lawyer and member of the bar in Washington, D. C., Mr. Kimball has been with the Federal Bureau of Investigation since 1935, serving in New York, Baltimore and Norfolk before his San Francisco assignment in 1946. He will be introduced on Thursday by the program chairman, Alton H. Walker. The president, Ted Fehring, will preside during the dinner and business hour.

A very special dinner for the occasion will be served in the church social hall by Mrs. Jacqueline Crosby and her staff. Reservations are required and may be made at the church office, 1540-W.

Drop us a card, we'll call on you

Dr. Chen Shou-Yi, who is to speak at the last presentation of Town Meeting, Thursday, April 21, at 8 p. m., at the Carmel Woman's Club, has recently returned from a stay of 11 months in Eastern Asia. He brings back a report of the chaotic conditions of his native land.

Dr. Chen's coverage of China included Kalgan in Inner Mongolia, to Canton in the extreme south, and also a trip into "Red" China. His travels also included the Philippines, Malaya, Netherlands East Indies, Thailand and Korea.

Josselyn Story Chosen

Talbert Josselyn's short story, Second Wind, has been chosen for inclusion in the 1949 edition of Post Short Stories. The book, which is edited by Red Smith, noted sports columnist of the N. Y. Herald Tribune, is compiled from stories printed in the Saturday Evening Post over a period of years. There is an introduction by Smith, and some of the other writers represented are Ring Lardner, James Thurber, J. P. Marquand, Eddie Orcutt, Paul Gallico, Charles Francis Coe and Corey Ford.

Second Wind is a prize fight story and was published originally in a January, 1940, issue of the Post. Winding up in familiar San Francisco, the beginning locale used by the author will be recognized by long-time residents as the old strip of "jungle" along Del Monte Avenue which was frequented by hoboes.

Bridge For Guest

Mrs. Arthur Gergen, who is now living in the Low house in Carmel Highlands, and Mrs. Elmer Brown of Salinas entertained Tuesday at a bridge luncheon of three tables in honor of Mrs. Gergen's house guest, Mrs. R. D. Phillips of Oakland.

Bridge Section Meets

A good sprinkling of guests, largely from out of town, were present at the Monday meeting of the bridge section of the Carmel Woman's Club.

The hostesses, who were responsible for the floral decorations as well as refreshments, were Mrs. Sinclair McClellan, Mrs. Della Williams, Mrs. Ramona Gahl and Mrs. William H. Jones.

On Monday, April 18, author Anne Fisher will discuss her latest book, Oh Glittering Promise!, before the book section of the club.

Allan O'Dea Here

Allan O'Dea, whose acquaintance with Carmel dates from his tour of duty at Fort Ord during the war, was here last weekend to visit friends in Carmel and in the Valley. He is now living in San Francisco, having recently moved there from Los Angeles where he was connected with the movie studios in set work.

The World American

By W. M. Hutton

Mr. Hutton, a resident of Monterey, contributes the following tribute on the anniversary of Franklin D. Roosevelt's death, April 12, 1945.

The world of Roosevelt has gone as suddenly as darkness comes after the meteor's fall. In sorrow the tears fell from more eyes than ever before for one man's death. His end was not that of a bitter disappointed man, but of a man grasping the topmost round, who stepped down from highest honors of the world, and without gathering the plaudits that awaited him, wrapped the mantle of his glory about him and lay down to rest. In life his spirit was like the boundless sea on which, as captain of his fate, he loved to sail, for it touched upon all the shores of mankind.

He was the most influential personality the world has ever known. Born to wealth, he did not wear any of its shackles; taught in the his life from the wisdom of the world, nor stand upon the pedestal of cloistered illusions.

He took up the cause of the great mass of men who have neither worldly goods nor hope of ease. His heart sought out the poor, the oppressed, and the suffering peoples of every land and brought to them everlasting faith and hope of freedom from fear and want and man's oppression.

He brought together the weak and downtrodden and made the war shattered nations of the earth one great nation-like force that in battle has accomplished a victory over the enemies of freedom.

The victims of tyranny and treachery and greed and racial hate looked to him as their deliverer. His weapon was not fear, nor death, nor armed might, but he made people good friends and neighbors in arms by the magic of his personality and sacrifice of self.

Sacrifice is a greater might than pen and sword; and by his sacrifice he conquered the world and has raised America to the highest pinnacle and to a glory and a grandeur greater than any nation of the past.

In his homeland he has made government a means for attaining social justice, liberty and happiness. He has set in motion means to conquer poverty and disease and render justice to all throughout the world. He took us from the slough of despond to the fields of hope. His broken body carried the soul of a man made perfect by infinite effort and sacrifice upon the altar of humanity.

Proclaim, O heavenly messengers the glory of his life; O people, humbly bow down before his great work and give thanks that you are the heirs of his greatness.

BACK TO COLLEGE

Eleanor Davis left Sunday to return to Oxford, Ohio, where she attends Western College. She was here to spend spring vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Davis. Her next trip home will be for summer vacation following final examinations in June.

Attends Republican Meeting

Mrs. Milton Marquard attended the quarterly meeting of the Northern Division of the California Council of Republican Women in Sacramento last week. Following luncheon at which Lt. Governor Goodwin Knight was the principal speaker, a business meeting was held, and the women passed a resolution as going on record opposing the present system of cross filing in California.

Random Shots

The mix-up on Howell Armor's Serra statue in the bus station; is someone playing a gag on him? The Pine Cone received a For Sale ad for the statue, neatly written out, and it just isn't so.

Dorothy Chapman starting the building of a new house on San Antonio and Fourth streets, right next door to the John Abernethys.

Freda Sharpe moving into a cabin down the coast; her daughter, Rosalind Wall, returning soon by plane from Mexico.

Carol Howard, Loli Willox and Marie Short resuming weekly visits to relax at the hot springs down the coast, inviting Kraig Weston and Georgie Taylor to join them.

Harry Dickinson moaning about old age but looking just as chipper as ever when we see him on the street—same old twinkle in his eyes.

Florence Geisen's new haircut makes her look so young we can't distinguish her from the hundreds of college girls here on vacation.

And speaking of school girls on vacation, will Betty Horst survive the 35 high school girls she has quartered at Lobos Lodge?

David Eldridge, who has just bought out Helen Brazil's antique shop, gave a buffet supper and party for the cast of Arms and the Man (of which he is a member) on Sunday following rehearsal.

Eleanor Hatlo leaving this week to join Jimmy for a short time in New York before she hurries back to James, Jr.

Fred Goss recovering nicely but still in the Community Hospital after two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas W. Norris back from a trailer trip to Palm Springs.

The Howard Rigbys, children, and dog, have arrived safely in Cuernavaca, playing host to a case of measles along the way.

Francis Whittaker looking unhappy because he still has the cast on his foot after a skiing accident weeks ago.

The Richard Osbornes in Los Banos last weekend to visit the John B. Nichols (Nancy Burkett), who were having a house party for a group of friends.

Three honeymoon couples at Del Monte Lodge this week, among them Mr. and Mrs. Seymour Shingle of Honolulu (the former Priscilla Holmes of San Jose and a frequent visitor on the Peninsula.)

Mrs. Fenton Grigsby back from the Kappa Kappa Gamma convention in Tucson, having had a wonderful time.

Time was when, if you had on a hat, two questions were asked: Going to the city? Or, just get back from San Francisco? Count the hats you see on the street now and you'll be surprised.

Young Basil Allaire down from Santa Clara with friends, a houseful. And Phil Wettengel driving all the way from Oklahoma with his buddies, just to spend vacation here.

Ariss Decorations

Bruce Ariss has done a wonderful job on the new AWVS Shop at 707 Del Monte Avenue in Seaside. You can't miss the yellow front and the special Ariss decorations on the shop, for it stands out with a bang from the surrounding shopping center.

The unanticipated measure of success with which the shop has been greeted has AWVS members on the run these days, trying to keep the shelves stocked. You can help them and the community by salvaging any usable and clean articles—clothing, toys, books, furniture, clocks, linen, radios, etc., for resale at the shop. Funds from the sale of items there are used to further the American Women's Voluntary Services' various community projects.

No Rest For The Weary

Easter Vacation was no vacation for Carmel's top school men. Superintendent Stuart Mitchell attended the high school principals' convention at San Diego during the Easter Week "holiday." "Took along both cameras and didn't find time to make a shot." On the convention: "We tried to define our objectives, and co-ordinate the work of the schools." Art Hull, Sunset Principal, attended the elementary school principals' convention in Santa Cruz.

Editorials...

One answer is: not the people, because they change with the days and the wars; but it is things, tangible things that make this spot outstanding in all of California.

It is the ocean and the trees. Take away the trees and you take away half the charm.

Let us continue the charm and let us say Carmel-by-the-Sea, not just Carmel, Cal. Anyone being fortunate enough to live here should have time enough to write the longer address. A campaign of publicity should be inaugurated to have everybody use the more charming name on all bill heads and letter heads, in spite of the fact that the post office needs to use the shorter name.

—Ferdinand Burgdorff

REMINDER

Small bouquets are needed for donation to the County Hospital on Easter morning, a project undertaken by the Carmel Woman's Club. Two hundred are needed for the trays of hospital patients, and Mrs. Pierce Parsons, garden chairman, asks that bouquets (as many as you can bring) be left at the club building on Saturday, April 16, before 10 a. m.

Arts And The Artists

By Mary Calnori

Some of the Carmel artists are assembling their paintings for the Madonna Festival which has become an important annual show at the Methodist Church on Plymouth Boulevard, Los Angeles, in commemoration of Mother's Day. They show art in any medium on the subject of mother and child. If you have any piece you want to loan to the Festival, better present it to the Carmel Gallery right away.

Ferdinand Burgdorff, who has been painting and philosophizing upon the beauties of this Peninsula for forty years, brought up the subject of our newest (we think, but we live so fast these days) portrait painter in Carmel. Leslie Emery, a most and amiable young man. Burgdorff says his work is tight, and hard, and didactic. It tells no lies; he is an excellent colorist. It is interesting to note that before he made his way Carmelward, Emery was an anatomical draftsman. Just recently, Mr. Emery finished a portrait of Mrs. Arne Halle. On Saturday evening there is to be an unveiling at Mr. Emery's studio where the Arne Halle friends and Emery's will gather round for the ohs and ahs.

The following new members will be contributing from now on to the Art Gallery here. Mrs. Montague, curator of the Gallery was pleased as punch that Samuel F. B. Morse and his son, John B. Morse, are working in water colors and oils respectively. Dr. Remsen Bird has been hiding his light under a bushel and working away in cartoon medium too clever for words. And to the distinguished list of portrait painter members has been added young S. E. Manning. A very charming Viennese, Mrs. John J. Atkinson, also became a member. She is married to a Fort Ord army officer. Poet and modern painter William Justema has joined the Association.

Until Monday when the Theme of the Cross show comes down, the Gallery is pervaded with the meaning of the Cross, and one is affected by the preponderance of the one idea. The pitiable sacrifice is portrayed in brooding tones or angry demonstrable strokes. Drop in before it's too late. Here is the list of painters who contributed to the Theme of the Cross show: Henrietta Shore, Sam Wainwright, Ferdinand Burgdorff, Charlotte Betts, Paul Mays, Ferdinand Haasis, Celia Seymour, Edda Heath, Margery Doolittle, Marjorie Pegram, E. Cashion MacLennan, Gene McComas, Lqesa Jenkins and Maxint Albro, all members. Then there was a painting of Andre Moreau, and one of Marian Parsons' (loaned by Noel Sullivan.) The objets d'art on display came from Alvin Beller, Noel Sullivan, Harold Mack, Helen Bruton, Maud Oaks, Lady Maria Antonia Field, Katherine Aurner, John Cunningham, John Catlin, Lady Claude Kinnoul, Bruno Adriani, Mrs. Mathew Jenkins, Mrs. Raymond Grable, Mrs. Rama Stearns, Miss Mary Smith, and from the Mission San Carlos.

More than 38,000 men recently competed for 2,000 Navy college scholarships in the NROTC program.

Local Churches Easter Services

(Continued from Page One) for young people from the fourth grade upward at 9:30 a. m., and for those from three to eight years old at 11 o'clock.

A special service for the baptism of children will be held at 4 p. m., and the Youth Fellowship will conduct an Easter worship service in the chapel at 7 p. m.

At the Carmel Mission, Low Masses will be said at 7, 8 and 9:30 Easter morning, with a Solemn High Mass at 11 o'clock. Noel Sullivan will direct the choir in singing the mass.

At the Del Monte Chapel, there will be Holy Communion at 8 o'clock followed by a children's service at 8:45. There will be two identical services, one at 9:30 and the other at 11:15 with Holy Communion, Easter music and the sermon, Teach Us to Pray, by the Rev. Theodore H. Bell.

A sunrise service will be held up Carmel Valley at 6:15 at the site of the proposed Carmel Valley Chapel, 12 miles up the Valley at the Los Laureles tract entrance.

at, and the sermon will be delivered by the Rev. John Logan of the First Presbyterian Church in Monterey.

DECORATED

Lieut. Col. Alfred G. Fry was presented the Legion of Merit for outstanding service during the months from January through June, 1945, at Army Day exercises held last Saturday at Fort Ord. Actually, he had received the decoration some years ago by mail but it had never been officially presented. He is the manager of La Playa Hotel.

CROSS SHOW CONTINUES

The Carmel Art Association will continue the Theme of the Cross Show and Howard Smith's one-man exhibition through Easter Sunday. Monday the unjuried, full membership show will open, to remain until May 15.

TO TALK ON MYSTERIES

That successful wife, mother, dean, professor and writer, Dr. Nellie Slayton Aurner of the University of Iowa, is visiting her son, Dr. Robert R. Aurner on Casanova street in Carmel, and her first public appearance on the Peninsula will be next Tuesday evening, April 19, when she will address Mrs. Glenn Clairmonte's current literature group. This group meets weekly at 7:30 in room 11 of Sunset School, as part of the program of the Carmel Adult School, and everybody is welcome to attend.

In spite of her scholarly background, Dr. Aurner has chosen as her subject for Tuesday evening The Rise and Progress of Whodunit.

For Printing that is distinctive—Telephone 2, The Pine Cone Press.

FIELD TRIP

"Rock Formations." She was whistling. I couldn't imagine why anyone would whistle at a rock formation, so I went closer. Still the rock had not moved and still she whistled. So I went closer. Sitting on the rock was the third cocker spaniel. I whistled. It never moved. The "Animals" contest was last month, so she didn't take the picture.

It was getting late again, and we had finally come to beautiful scenery. Clear streams, graceful sycamores, hillsides of wildflowers, spring on every side and around every curve, as well as pictures. But we couldn't stop. Our loyalty to the camera club never wavered. We were bound and determined to meet the others at 1:30 and time was running out. Besides, we wanted to save a lot of film for the fruit blossoms.

We came to Blossom Hill Road that overlooks miles and miles of orchards as far as the eye can see. Orchards, but no blossoms. Much too early for the blossoms.

It didn't really matter. We would meet the others and talk over our experiences. Perhaps they had found blossoms we could photograph on the return trip. So we drove on and at exactly 1:30 we arrived in Saratoga and asked for the high school. There was no high school. There were no other members of the camera club.

An hour later we started home. The next field trip is two weeks from now. It's a funny thing; I think I feel a sore throat coming on.

RED + NEWS

On Tuesday, April 19, at 1:30 p. m., an orientation training course for Red Cross volunteers will be held at the chapter house, Dolores near Eighth. Mrs. Francis Foraker, chairman of staff aides, and Mrs. Kent Parrot, chairman of volunteers for the blood program, are especially eager to have new workers to assist in these services. Applications are available at the chapter office; further information may be secured by telephoning Miss Elizabeth Fogel, the executive secretary, at 382. The main requirements are a minimum age of 18, personal qualifications enabling one to work well with others, and willingness to give a regular time for service—a half day per week or at least one day per month.

The volunteer work of the chapter offers opportunities for all types of abilities and interests: receptionists, specialists in crafts, drama, music, or dancing; knitters and sewers; clerical workers and typists; social service workers; Gray Ladies; speakers, writers, and administrators; instructors in the safety programs. Volunteer work through the Red Cross brings huge returns in personal satisfaction from being able to help others. It also offers opportunities to become better acquainted with other real people.

Wessel-Storr Piano Team To Play Here

Music lovers on the Monterey Peninsula will have an opportunity to hear the duo-piano team of Wessel and Storr in concert at the Carmel Sunset Auditorium on April 26, under the local management of Emma Evans and John Burr.

Mark Wessel and Sherman Storr, both pupils of Josef Lhevinne, as master pianists as well as gifted composers. They have appeared with symphonies throughout the country as soloists with outstanding success. They were associated for some time as duo artists before the war interrupted their work in this field.

Special student rates are offered as well as popular prices on all seats, according to the management.

Smiley Activities

Mrs. Ethel Smiley's holiday took a bad turn when she contracted virus pneumonia, and her stay in Carmel hasn't been a very pleasant one. A guest of her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur C. Smiley, she came up from Los Angeles with them a week ago when they returned from a visit in Brentwood with Mr. Smiley's sister and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Hromadka.

Mr. and Mrs. Hromadka are due here for a weekend visit with the Smileys on May 7, when they will pass through Carmel on their way to San Francisco.

Turners Housewarming

A throng of friends joined the George B. Turners Saturday evening for a housewarming of their attractive new brick house on Torres street. The occasion also served to celebrate the birthday of Mrs. Bud Wilder.

For the Turner home the guests left a lovely curtain screen for the fireplace, and for Mrs. Wilder, a weeping willow for the patio being built at the Wilder's Carmel Valley home.

Guests were June and George Turner, Eunice and Bud Wilder, Dorothea and Kenneth Roberts, Wanda and Van Scholles, Eloise and Don Dawson, Eujane and Reuben Johnson, Emily and John Huddleston, Clarence and Harry Turner, Mary Jane and Hal Roberts, Elaine and Truman Scarlett, Jim Hurl, Elaine Hunt, Bill Ccarlett, and Hod Scholles.

California Wardrobe Shown

A versatile wardrobe for a California weekend made up the bulk of Maxine's first fashion show at the Pine Inn on Wednesday; and to travel in, there were several costumes with a "go everywhere" appeal.

For swimming, the Black Pirate, a two piece satin latex suit worn by Miss Deborah Geering, took top honors. Boned and shirred down the center front, the strapless suit features the new low back and dainty appeal is added by small self-scallops outlining the top of it. It is "Male Tested" by members of the movie colony, and we can believe it. Miss Geering's two piece suit of satin latex and polka dot taffeta looked almost too good to put in the water. A four piece combination, including a two piece swim suit, was made up in a printed cotton pique. The slim shorts had a tie belt for perfect fit, and the bra was so designed that it may be worn with or without straps. A patio skirt, ruffled on the hem, and a shortie coat, repeating the ruffle, completed the costume.

Progressing to active or spectator sports, Miss Ellen Leeds wore mix or match outfit, the first of red pedal pushers, a navy Commodore's jacket (both in rayon gabardine), and a blue and white striped wool jersey. The jersey was used later with navy slacks of rough, spun rayon and a jacket of red gabardine. A winter white Commodore's jacket in whisper gabardine complemented a blue mariner's slim skirt, making a smart outfit with the addition of a white wool jersey blouse. A gold, red and blue crest emblazoned on the front of the blouse is designed perfectly to match in color any of her mixable outfits.

A charming glazed chintz print worn by Mrs. Anthony Kastros had a peplum trimmed with black and black shoulder straps. This bare shouldered sun dress had a small cape of black linen to match the trim, and with it Mrs. Kastros wore red latex sandals with wood soles. Kramer's carries these ingenious play shoes which have a special device on the wooden soles to keep them from clattering.

Mrs. Kastros' red and white polka dot dress of rayon crepe was softly fashioned and very fetching with its bolero-like jacket of red linen. A white calf handbag was carried with it.

Again featuring a small cape, Miss Helen Prosser wore an old fashioned calico print sun dress, whose trapless bodice was tightly fitted and trimmed with a tiny, flattering ruffle. A second dress shown by her was a dress to make you look cool when the weather man predicts warmer. Of washable white Sandringham, the dress had the new scoop neckline and a full skirt with a tier of three tucks at the hem line.

Cord again, this time in pure wool and of a brown tone which will be equally good for fall, was worn by Miss Leeds in a suit with slim skirt. Finely tailored, the jacket had a soft curving peplum in front, and on the lapel Miss Leeds wore a huge pixie pin, tucking in a pure silk scarf at the neck for color. Carrying out the style of the suit was a smart brown Korday bag. Neckline and pocket interest, together with simple tailoring, set off the bright green wool suit worn by Miss Prosser. The perfect travel suit shown by Miss Geering was of rayon in a wrinkle-resistant weave, another outfit good from now on through summer.

Pure silk blouses, for these or other suits, were shown by Mrs. Marjorie Lee Luna, commentator for her show, who pointed out that they seem never to require pressing and take little packing space.

Two straight cut coats of distinctive simplicity, coats of a cold and style to wear with practically anything, were modeled by Miss Prosser and Mrs. Kastros. Both of pure wool fleece, one was in geranium red and the other in pure, snowy white. These coats clean beautifully with no loss of nap, and their linings are good for the life of the coat.

Lilacs were featured by Mrs. Nielson of N. B. Florists in the table arrangements, and all accessories were provided by Kramer's.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCH

"Doctrine of Atonement" is the subject of the Christian Science Lesson-Sermon for Sunday, April 17, with the Golden Text taken from John: "John seeth Jesus coming unto him, and saith, Behold the Lamb of God, which taketh away the sin of the world" (1:29).

The following citations are included in the sermon:

Revelation: "And every creature which is in heaven, and on the earth, and under the earth, and such as are in the sea, and all that are in them, heard I saying, Blessing, and honour, and glory, and power, be unto him that sitteth upon the throne, and unto the Lamb for ever and ever" (5:13).

"Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "For victory over a single sin, we give thanks and magnify the Lord of Hosts. What shall we say of the mighty conquest over all sin? A louder song, sweeter than has ever before reached high heaven, now rises clearer and nearer to the great heart of Christ; for the accuser is not there, and Love sends forth her primal and everlasting strain" (p. 568).

Sierra Club Movies At Sunset School On Monday Night

Hiking on the John Muir Trail is the theme of an illustrated talk by Frank H. Lewis of San Jose under the auspices of the Carmel Adult School Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock, Sunset auditorium. The program is sponsored by the Loma Prieta chapter of the Sierra Club and is open to the public free of charge.

The slides which Lewis will show are photographs taken by himself during several High Sierra expeditions of the Sierra Club. They cover the area from Mineral King to Mount Whitney and from there to Yosemite. The speaker has been a member of the Sierra Club since 1926 and has participated in 13 high mountain trips.

Supplementing the still pictures in color, there will also be shown a motion picture, Babes in the Woods. This is from the camera of Richard Leonard of Berkeley, secretary of the Sierra Club. It chronicles a trip north of Tuolumne Meadows, part of it in trail-less areas, taken by Mr. and Mrs. Leonard and their three children, aged 6, 8, and 9.

For some years the Sierra Club has scheduled hiking and camping trips in the Carmel area, but this is its first presentation of a public lecture in Monterey County. Programs of this type are frequent in other communities as a part of the attempt "to explore, enjoy, and protect the natural mountain scene." To further such ends the Sierra Club was organized over 50 years ago by John Muir and associates. The Loma Prieta chapter, which includes several members on the Monterey Peninsula, has been functioning since 1933.

Cooperating with Charles Dawson, Adult School principal, in the arrangements for this program is Professor Elmo A. Robinson of the San Jose State College, chairman of the chapter's educational committee.

PADRE TRAILS WINNERS

Mrs. Jay Tuthill won first award in the color slide division of the Padre Trails Camera Club monthly show Saturday night at Forest Hills Hotel in Pacific Grove, subject, animals. George Herzenberg won first honorable mention, Miss Doris Schmiedell, second, and Earle Meyer, third.

In the print division, Mrs. Clifford Cook won first award and third honorable mention, John P. O'Leary first honorable mention, and Ed Brooks, second.

Business meeting is scheduled for April 23 when Frank Shropshire will demonstrate lighting for portrait photography. Members will show the slides made on last month's field trip.

GOP LUNCHEON POSTPONED

Mrs. Karl W. Hisgen, president of the Monterey Peninsula Republican Women, has announced that the annual spring luncheon, planned for May 3, has been postponed until June. The new date will be announced later.

The Easter Riots

excitement it brought. Some adults were tolerantly amused at the goings on, and shrugged off the disorderly conduct as something connected with unsettled world affairs. But a goodly portion of the citizenry hated these visitors cordially—as one may well imagine—not only for their sheer numbers, which brought no compensating business to the shopkeepers and certainly kept a lot of potential business away, but also for the almost incredible swinishness of the behavior of many of them. Thanks to the habitually slanderous articles by smart-aleck reporters in the city dailies, Carmel enjoyed the unsavory reputation of being a place where "everything goes." A number of the students, accordingly, parked their inhibitions in Berkeley, San Francisco, or Palo Alto when school let out, and proceeded to make Holy Week in Carmel a sort of Saturnalia in which all the worst aspects of Fourth-of-July, Labor Day, and Halloween appeared in exaggerated form.

We quote from the Cymbal, issue of March 22, 1940: "This is disgusting! . . . The discourtesy, the apparent ill-breeding, the domineering and disgraceful actions of these grown-up children who have swarmed into our community this Easter vacation week are inexcusable."

"The problem, growing worse each year, must and can be stopped. The blame for it rests directly upon the real estate agents and the owners of rented property. It is time that the people of Carmel rose up and delivered an ultimatum. These young people who think . . . that youth is a career, should be prevented from occupying houses in our city. There should be a rigid ban upon them as tenants. . . Carmel cannot and it should not stand this sort of thing any longer."

In the next issue:
"For the Easter vacation period, beginning Friday, March 15, our three policemen, augmented by a student officer from the San Jose State College Police School, worked on 12-hour shifts, with days-off cancelled."

"The chief of police worked on 16 hour shifts."

"There were 28 arrests made."

"There were more than 100 other citations, half of which would have been arrests under normal circumstances."

"There was an average of 10 police calls every night for disturbances in houses."

"The police were called to one house seven times in one night."

"For two hours, between 7 and 9 o'clock, Saturday evening, March 16, the police worked steadily to break up crowds of milling students completely sweeping the sidewalks on Ocean Avenue."

"These recurring and waxing

Easter human holocausts are not good for Carmel . . . there is no doubt about the fact that it tends to advertise Carmel as the sort of place where . . . the inhibitions forced on youth in their home towns can be cast to the winds and license take the place of decent liberty. . . . There are things that go on in houses rented by these college students during Easter week that bear little relation to the spirit of Holy Week as the Christians see it; things that would tend to put some silver threads among the gold around San Francisco bay."

Easter vacation in 1941 was very, very much quieter because the town was already filling up with Army families; houses were not as easy to find for short rental periods, and rents were climbing. By 1942, many colleges had ceased giving Easter vacations, and transportation was somewhat uncertain, so the Easter plague epidemics have become progressively less virulent.

The youngsters gathering here this week are behaving "very well," according to police department reports.

Pilot Crashes, Lands In Bay

Robert Snowman, flying out of the Monterey Airport, narrowly escaped death yesterday when his plane made a forced landing 500 yards west of the Hopkins Marine Station. The pilot swam the 35 yards to shore.

Meanwhile, the crash was reported to the Coast Guard by both Monterey and Pacific Grove police, and a rescue boat was immediately dispatched. The plane, which is thought to have been owned by Aiton Walker of Pebble Beach, was badly damaged in the crash. Its number is NC84063.

The pilot is a member of the Champion Flying Club.

FUNCTIONAL FURNISHINGS

ONE OF TODAY'S BIGGEST BARGAINS

How your telephone gives you more real value today in spite of sharply increased costs of furnishing service

1. For a quick call to the druggist, for business, for every purpose, your telephone is a more valuable servant today than ever. It can run more errands, do more jobs. In the past ten years, telephones on the Coast have doubled. We're continuing to add them rapidly. Result: You can get in touch with more people. More people can get in touch with you.

2. If you could see how much expensive equipment goes to work for you each time you make a call, you might wonder how it can be done . . . for just a few dollars a month. Lines, cables, poles, buildings, intricate equipment—all must be ready . . . along with the people who man them . . . to serve you when you pick up your telephone.

3. More "Voices with a Smile" are serving the West today . . . our payroll is the biggest ever. Postwar costs have shot up all along the line on the things we do to provide service. The facilities to serve new telephones today cost about twice as much as prewar. Yet telephone rates are up much less than almost anything we buy or you buy.

4. There is no way to determine the full value of a telephone, of course. A call may be routine—or it may save a life, make a new friend, close a business deal. Yet a few pennies still buy a telephone call. In these days of high prices, it's good to know that your telephone keeps giving you real value—it's one of today's biggest bargains.
